

New Box News

This page is designed as a quick summary of the rumours regarding the new box set, as there are frequent news stories with quite a lot of false information in them! The NAF has some of the most experienced BB players in the world, who have been collating the best information that Games Workshop has provided.

- The important point - the core rules are staying the same, but there will be some roster changes. Various details were released at Warhammerfest, and the new website is at bloodbowl.com.
- The big change is the board, which is increasing from 29mm squares to 34mm, making the length around 15cm longer than currently.
- Latest release date expectation is Saturday 26th November. This would be in time for the Christmas market and the Full Beard Blood Bowl tournament is taking place at Warhammer World that weekend.
- No guidance has been given on likely cost.
- In terms of the effect on NAF tournaments, some guidance has been provided.