NAF WEEK 5: HEADLINES

Ramtut Splats the Rats

The Skaven Scramblers' crisis season continues as the Champions of Death beat them easily in a 3-1 victory at the City of Skavenblight Stadium to condemn them to a 1-4 record. Ramtut III had a standout game, completely dominating the line of scrimmage and killing or maiming several players. The home crowd were calling for head coach Vytick the Many Headed's head, although they didn't stipulate which one! The Champions win means they keep pace with the divisional leading Middenheim Marauders, who totally thrashed the Albion Wanderers 3-0.

Dwarf Demolition Derby

In the battle of the Dwarves, it was the Giants who came out on top, despite tough resistance from the Warhammerers, the Calgar side's brutal running game ground down their rivals, leaving head coach Insane Thorsson Axeheim with several injury headaches for their next game. With both the Scramblers and Warhammerers losing the Crescents took advantage with a routine win over the hapless Greenfield Grasshuggers.

Gladiators' are Crocks of Gold

Despite an eye watering injury crisis, the Galadrieth Gladiators stand-ins did a sterling job of defeating their bitter Dark Elf rivals the Naggaroht Nightwings. The Gladiators' swarming secondary smothered the Nightwings' Catchers and made two vital interceptions. Other results in the NFC West, means there's a three-way tie at the top. The situation is worse for the Nightwings as the Reikland Reavers and Gouged Eye maintained their relentless form with crushing wins.

Dark Time for the Renegades

The Vynheim Valkyries continue to find ways to win, as they beat the Dark Renegades defensive tussle to remain perfect. The Renegades, whose poor form this season has surprised many, matched the Valkyries blow for blow, but ultimately, the superb play of Catcher Erik Redmist condemned them to another loss. Where the Renegades have underwhelmed, the new look Bruendar Grimjacks have impressed many, they had a vital win against the insipid Bluchen Berserkers to improve to 4-1 and joint leadership of the AFC West. The Eagles remain favourites, but are facing strong competition from the inspired Westside Werewolves.

Lowdown Rats' All-Time Low

And finally, the basement dwelling Lowdown Rats are setting records this season, records of the wrong kind. After 5 games, they've lost all 5, and, significantly, have failed to score a single touchdown. Their latest loss was a 3-0 mauling by the Westside Werewolves. Head Coach/Owner Grimy Snivels game plan of releasing a horde of stray cats onto the field to distract the Werewolves spectacularly backfired when they turned on the luckless Goblins! (See Low Expectations p.16)

ATHELORN AVENGERS

"Good evening, Sports Fans. Jim Johnson here, it's week 5 in the NAF and we're watching this crunch game between NFC Central rivals the Evil Gits and Athelorn Avengers. This one's a nail-biter, what do you reckon, Bob?"

"Y'know, Jim, this is turning into just the sort of game that Elves hate."

"I hear you, Bob, the Gits are fouling with impunity and the referee's done nothing about it. That's got to be frustrating for a team like the Avengers, who rely on free flowing tactics."

"Oh yeah, that as well, but look at the state of their uniforms, Jim, and their hair! It's gonna cost a fortune in remedial hair stylists to sort out those split ends after the match!"

"Ooof, the Gits' Dark Elf Kicker Jasper Groinmalice has just committed a blatant foul!"

"Yowee! Well, I guess he could argue he kicked a ball, Jim"

"Finally, the ref's taking action, Bob. I think Groinmalice is going to be in trouble. 'Blind' Dick Hanson's just blown his whistle"

"Hold your horses, Jim. What the heck is he doing?"

"Um, looks like Pop Khorne's off the menu today, Bob"

"Meh, I'm more of a Rat-on-a-Stick kind of guy myself."

Welcome to At Home with our latest interviewee: Helmut Wulf! Chainsaw-swinging star of the Bruendar Grimjacks. We've caught him in one of his rare periods of relative emotional stability free time after a particularly rough game against the Bluchen Berserkers.

Sports Killerstrated: Mr Wulf! It's a pleasure to catch up with you. How was that game against the Dark Renegades?

Helmut Wulff: Revvvrevvv vroom!! Eh?! Who are you and where did ya come from?

SK: It's Interviewer Person, doing a profile on you from the NAF, silly! When did you first realise you had it in you to be a Blood Bowl megastar?

HW: Bares teeth and snarls like an animal

SK: Very scary! Tell me Helmut: Now, what's your favourite time of day to play?

HW: I don't care! Don't come any closer! Eehee!!

SK: Are you looking forward to the rest of the season?

HW: Helmut barks and starts shaking his chainsaw

SK: Here's a naughty question for you... Do you have any juicy gossip you can share about what happens down here in the dugouts?

HW: Juicy gossips?

SK: Yes!

HW: I might have some juicy giblets I can share... aha, here. There was some in me pocket. I think it's goblin. This what you're after? They taste best fresh from the source. Slurp.

SK: Ah, thank you, but no thank you. Helmut, may I call you Helmut? Do you have any tips for aspiring young Blood Bowl players to be?

HW: Clean all the gristle from yer chainsaw bits as soon as you finish a game. It can get... sticky otherwise. Huheheh. Vroomroomroom... Oh, and get a proper respectable agent to check your contract out before you sign it. Vroomroomroom!!

SK: I must say, this cologne you're wearing, Mr Wulf. What is that delightfully powerful scent?

HW: Dunno, I ain't washed in six years. Vroomvroomroom!

SK: Thank you, Mr Wulf. Now, what's your pre-game routine? Do you have any rituals, any good-luck charms?

HW: I'm glad ya asked... I like to play Catch the Chainsaw with whoever happens to be standing nearby. I'll show you how it works, hang on...

SK: Thank you, Helmut! Anything else you want to add?

HW: Catch!

OBITS AND PIECES

R.I.P (Rot in Pieces): Ghite the Disgusting

Nurgle's Rotters have a rather unique method of player recruitment, they never use the crush and player trades with other NAF teams are unheard of (there aren't many regular players that fancy moving to a team where their teammates will consist of decomposing mounds of flesh), instead, their extensive network of scouts travel the known world visiting areas being ravaged by plague. It's an unorthodox method, but it works- some of the all-time great Rotters have joined the team via this route.

This summer, the fans' hopes were high that their new signing, the Lineman Ghite the Disgusting, (who was killed during this week's game) would follow in the foetid footsteps of Hall of Famers Smelly Pete and Goran the Tentacle Svengard. Sadly for the Rotters, it was not to be, because Ghite had the great misfortune to be assigned to cover the Oldheim Ogres Blocker Grak'Ng Grak Gorthag.

As the game progressed, Ghite began to look more and more lethargic, despite the fact he had avoided any direct hits from the star Ogre. Finally, the Rotters' Lineman collapsed dead, slowly dissolving into a puddle of putrescent ooze. Gorthag was nonplussed but credited with the fatality.

It was only after the match that the truth was revealed, the hulking Ogre Blocker had recently agreed to endorse a brand of antiseptic mouthwash. On that particular day, his pre-match feast of roasted Elf thighs was particularly heavy on the garlic, so much so that he felt compelled to gargle an entire bottle of complementary mouthwash. During the match, Ghite's close marking of Gorthag was so effective that he ended breathing in the Ogre's strongly antiseptic breath, which had slowly killed the disease-ridden Rotter!

LOW EXPECTATIONS

Rats and Cats

The Lowdown Rats are a team that take pride in pushing the boundaries of what is possible. Every time you think they can't possibly get any worse, they somehow manage to find new levels of cretinous ineptitude. This status as the pioneers of pointlessness was never more in evidence than this week's game against the high-flying Westside Werewolves.

The lycanthropic team are on something of a roll this season, having played impressively on the way to a 3-1 record. Meanwhile, the Rats have lost all four of their games 0-3. Contrary to all available evidence, the Rats aren't so stupid as to believe they actually stood a chance in this match, so, Head Coach Grimy Snivel spent all week devising a game plan so cunningly devious, that, should it work, his team might actually stand a chance of giving the AFC Western division leaders a shock. However, that 'if' was a very big one, because, like most of the Rats' cunning plans, something went missing on its journey from the drawing board to the pitch.

As the team entered the field of play and assumed their starting formation, each goblin was carrying with him a large, writhing, sack. As soon as the kick-off was taken, Coach Snivel gave the signal, and all eleven Goblins emptied the contents of their sacks. For a moment, the home crowd drew a collective intake of breath, as they witnessed the extraordinary sight of hundreds of stray cats scratching and clawing the helpless Goblin players. Coach Snivel's plan had hinged on the Werewolves being unable to tame their animalistic instincts, and start chasing the cats, whilst ignoring the game in progress.

Perhaps this trick would have worked if it was attempted by a more organised team, in the grubby hands of the Lowdown Rats, however, it all went horribly wrong: Earlier that week, Snivel had sent all his players out to snatch as many stray cats as they could find, however, Goblins being Goblins, they horribly mistreated them, which meant, by the time of kick off, the hundreds of Cats were so aggravated, they viciously turned on the Goblins at the first opportunity, extracting a painful revenge with their teeth and claws.

IT JUST MAKES YA LOOK DAFT WHEN YA ASK FOR AN ORCA COLA AND THEY SAY 'SORRY MATE, ONLY GOT PESTO MAX'. YOUR LIKELY TO GET A DECENT PINT OF BUGMAN'S IF YOU PLAYING IN A MOUNTAIN STADIUM, BUT HEAD UP NORTH TO THE CHAOS WASTES AND YOUR PROBABLY ONLY GOING TO BE ABLE TO PURCHASE AN OVERPRICED PONCY BOTTLE OF BLOODWEISER. YUCK. IS MONEY RUINING THE BEAUTIFUL GAME? DEPENDS IF IT IS IN MY POCKET OR NOT HA HA HA ..

I CAN'T COMPLAIN M'SELF. GORKER'S CRISPS MAKE SURE I'M ALWAYS STOCKED UP FOR GAME DAYS, AS YOU KNOW, YOU ALWAYS WORK UP A DECENT APPETITE, ESPECIALLY WHEN YOU'RE WATCHING SOME ELVES GET THE SNOTBEAT OUT OF THEM HA HA HA HA HA.

JOHNNY BLOOD BOWL

Unbelievable scenes as the Wise-man trophy, the award awarded to the nicest Blood Bowl player of the season (always awarded after only after 5 weeks as usually after then no Blood Bowl player can be labelled as nice) was won unbelievably by Bluchen Berserkers' Thrower meets Blitzer Johnny Mans-Hell!

There was a stunned silence around the Berserker's training ground the morning after Mans-Hell's unbelievable win - unbelievable because no Berserker player had ever even been nominated for the Wise-man Nicest Player Trophy - much less win it. 'I don't know if there's been a less impactful player for the Berserkers' in all my time coaching them or playing Blood Bowl said Berserker head coach Ivan Bloodshed over his morning cup of ale. I've got to play him, otherwise that crowd outside will keep sending me flowers!

Not only did Bloodshed play Mans-Hell, that but even as Slarga Fourstike picked up the rare award of scoring a hat-trick of Touchdowns against the Grasshuggers, it was Johnny BloodBowl who picked up the prestigious player of the game - even though at most he was responsible for tripping up a halfling who may have got to Fourstrike as he scored the winning touchdown!

When asked about Mans Hell winning the player of the game award, Fourstrike throttled the reporter.

RUMOUR CORNER

I hope this letter finds you well, and that the roof of our beloved family shack has stopped burning by the time you read this

After witnessing a particularly violent fight after a game of BULLY I was able to sneak in and "borrow" two cards as fists and tentacles were flying!

As you can see, BULLY cards are quite the artistic thing with the top card attached being the back of a player card and the bottom card being the back of a card from what is called by players as THE DECK OF FATE

I am slowly writing down the rules of this surprisingly simple game - to which I will tell you more soon!

Your son, Trevor

-PS- It turns out the cat transferred it's essence to our youngest. We are unsure of what to do next, however we have been feasting on rats he has caught!

BIGGEST GAMES: WEEK 6

Reikland Reavers (5-0) vs Westside Werewolves (4-1)

The biggest game of week 5 sees two of the AFC's top teams go head-to-head. The Reavers have had an easy ride so far, not even conceding a Touchdown. The Werewolves are in a 3-way tie at the top of the AFC West and their formidable defense will need to be at the top of their game to pull off an away win at the Altdorf Oldbowl

Vynheim Valkyries (5-0) vs Galadrieth Gladiators (3-2)

With Lucien Swift out for at least another month, the injury plagued Gladiators will not relish a trip to Longship stadium, home of the bruising Vynheim Valkyries.

Skaven Scramblers (1-4) vs Chaos All-Stars (5-0)

Rumours abound that head coach Vytick the Many headed is finished should the abject Skaven lose to the unbeaten All-Stars

Albion Wanderers (3-2) vs Naggaroth Nightwings (3-2)

Both teams are still in their respective title races but are more likely seeing this game as a test of their Chaos Cup credentials.

Middenheim Marauders (4-1) vs Bright Crusaders (3-2)

The Marauders will want to keep in control atop the AFC North, the bruised Bright Crusaders will not make it easy for them.

Southstorm Squids (3-2) vs Orcland Raiders (3-2)

The Squids are surprisingly in contention for the NFC East. This crunch game will test whether they're genuine contenders.
